Volunteers

Volunteers play a critical role within Columbia College. Not only do they serve as advocates and champions for the College but without their support, the College would not be the vibrant place it is. Alumni volunteers interview students for admission, practice interview skills with students, contribute to Class Notes for Columbia College Today, conduct peer-to-peer solicitations for the Columbia College Fund, help to plan Alumni Reunion Weekend and much more. Parent volunteers serve as ambassadors for the Parents Fund, soliciting gifts from fellow non-alumni parents to support the College’s mission of continually improving the complete College experience for every student. We thank all of the following volunteers for their time and generosity.

Leadership

The members of the Columbia College Board of Visitors and the Columbia College Alumni Association Board of Directors commit to promoting the best interests of the College within the University community, the city and the public sphere. Board members support Dean James J. Valentini and offer him high-level counsel, expertise and perspective on the best ways to advance the College’s mission. Listed on the following pages are the volunteers serving in this fiscal year, 2013–2014, with the exception of the Senior Fund Committee.

Columbia College Annual Report 2012–2013 23
"For me, it all comes back to financial aid. It is important that the Columbia experience remains available to all students, regardless of their family’s financial status. That means continuing the College’s need-blind admissions policy and providing students with competitive financial aid packages. I was a beneficiary of this policy. When you support the Columbia College Fund you’re directly supporting our financial aid program. You’re really giving someone the ‘gift’ of a Columbia education."

Young Alumni

Young Alumni Fund Advisory Board and the Columbia College Young Alumni Association focus on the most effective ways to inform and engage young alumni (those who graduated within the last 10 years). YAFAB focuses on developing the fundraising strategy for the Columbia College Young Alumni Fund while the CCYA board organizes social events to keep alumni involved and engaged. The Senior Fund educates and connects with the senior class on the importance of giving back.

Fundraising

Many alumni offer their time and efforts to raise money for the Columbia College Fund. Members of the Fund Development Council solicit leadership-level gifts from their peers while Class Agents encourage classmates to support the College Fund. Undergraduate Campaign Council volunteers lead efforts for the Campaign for Undergraduate Education. We thank these volunteers for their invaluable assistance, without which the College would be unable to achieve its financial objectives. Listed on the following pages are the fundraising volunteers serving in this fiscal year, 2013–2014.

Despite the uncertainties of post-college life and the stress of building a meaningful career, I have still been able to feel as though I am part of a supportive community because of my involvement in the Columbia College Alumni Association."

Parents are a vital part of the Columbia College community. The Parents Leadership Council helps to raise financial support for the Parents Fund from non-alumni parents while also creating a parent community within Columbia.

"We proudly support the Parents Fund because we want every Columbian's experience to have as much impact on their lives and be as positive as our sons' (Andrew '13 and Marc '16) experiences have been. The growth of the Parents Fund contributes directly, as we see it, to the academic and personal growth of our sons and their peers. Our participation in the Parents Fund also has made us closer to the parent community; we enjoy seeing our fellow parents at our meetings and, most importantly, cheering on our beloved Lions at Homecoming!"

“M y father, Paul ’58, set a powerful example of giving back to the College through service and I looked to emulate him by creating my own path of giving back. Serving as a Columbia College Today class representative for the last five years enabled me to stay in touch with old friends (many of whom I count among my closest), reconnect with others and get to know classmates I didn’t know well during college. It also deepened my connection to and appreciation for my class and the school as I follow classmates’ accomplishments in the arts, journalism, science, medicine, business, law and government.”

Donors

More than 17,000 donors, including alumni, parents, friends and members of the Class of 2013, gave to Columbia College during Fiscal Year 2012–2013. These donors, together with donors to other University departments that support our students, including Arts & Sciences, Athletics and the Columbia Libraries, during the same period, helped provide an even more exceptional undergraduate experience for College students. Whether their gift was in support of annual giving, campaign priorities, reunion, an award dinner, planned giving or another area, they had a great impact on the lives of our students.

The 25th reunion is a milestone. What really made it distinctive for me was how 1988 came together to accomplish something unprecedented. My fellow Alumni Reunion Weekend co-chairs, Reunion Committee members and classmates encouraged and motivated one another to make Columbia a philanthropic priority. It was inspiring to see so many people unite in support of such a worthwhile effort. It meant a lot to me to contribute to the class’ effort, and at the same time, to help create a scholarship in memory of my friend and [business] partner, Rich Ruzika ’81, who will be greatly missed.”

"I thought I knew a lot about Columbia when I entered on scholarship in 1949 but what I did not know was that I would soon be required to read books I did not know existed, encounter teachers who were as smart as Gordon Henderson ‘53 and happily become what I recognized as a new and wonderful Columbia College experience that I had.”

Today class correspondent and the reunion chair, I had wished to repay Columbia for the extraordinary impact it has had on all our lives. As our Columbia College Today class correspondent and the reunion chair, I had the immense pleasure to reconnect with hundreds of my old friends and to get them talking to one another once again. We have found that we share the view that our Columbia education, and especially the Core Curriculum, has given us a unique foundation to succeed in the many paths we have followed.”

A. Paul Neshamkin ’63
I support the Core because even 25 years later, I feel that it helps define me, not so much by the books themselves as by the conviction that there is always more to learn and that the great works are a worthy place to start. So not only did Columbia introduce me to my “first” Core but it also motivated me to create themselves as by the conviction that there is always more to learn.

Sharon Bowden Davis ’88
The College provided me an intimate environment within which I had the opportunity to learn from members of the faculty, especially James Shenton ’49, who were genuinely committed to teaching under-graduates. The College also helped me to appreciate that family of those who have had the privilege of a College from members of the faculty, especially James Shenton.

"My wife, Yvette, and I are so pleased to have established a scholarship committed to the success of Columbia’s students. As a beneficiary of the College’s need-blind admissions policy, it is particularly rewarding to give back when so much has been given to me on so many levels."

“M y academic and social experience at the College shaped and enriched my life. Supporting the College is my way of giving back to ensure future lions have access to the same great experience I did. While our tenure as students at Columbia is ephemeral, we never lose our status as alumni. My involvement allows me to continually interact with the people who make the Columbia community great. It’s an honor to help change the lives of those who are going to help change the world.”

Carlos Cuevas ‘05
Students must get into the habit of giving back to the College from a young age rather than waiting until they get their first substantial paycheck. Giving back to Columbia is not a one-time event, but a lifelong obligation to ensure Columbia continues to provide the highest quality experience to all students. I want to contribute to creating a rich culture of giving back among Columbia students.”

William Arthur Maxfield ’14
Parent Gifts

Parents are a vital part of the Columbia College community. The 45 parent families who serve on the Parents Leadership Council work to inspire their fellow non-alumni parents to raise financial support for the Parents Fund. They also create College communities for parents by hosting welcome receptions, lectures and other special events.

Gifts to the Parents Fund allow parents to enrich students’ undergraduate experience by supporting the Core Curriculum, providing stipends for student internships, enhancing financial aid and providing funds for extracurricular activities and events. Through their generosity, parents help all College students to grow academically as well as personally.

At Columbia, I pursued my academic passions. I made lifelong friends. The activities I participated in gave me invaluable leadership experience. It’s exciting to see my children, one a recent graduate and the other just beginning her Columbia odyssey, be similarly shaped. I am proud to volunteer for an institution that, while certainly distinguished during my undergraduate years, has reached greater prominence in the years since my graduation. Supporting the College and the Parents Fund is a tangible way to thank Columbia and to perpetuate for future Columbians, regardless of their means, all that is unique and special about alma mater.”

Class of 2015 Parents

When we saw how engaged and excited our daughter, Allie ’15, was at Columbia and learned about the opportunities available to her through the Core Curriculum and the robust and diverse programming, we welcomed the opportunity to give back. We reprimized our charitable giving with the hopes that our philanthropy could ensure that the Core and the limitless opportunities afforded through a Columbia education remain intact and are available to all students.”

The participation of friends — donors who are neither Columbia College alumni nor parents — enables the College to further enhance student programs and services by giving to the College, Arts & Sciences, Athletics and the Columbia Libraries. This is particularly true regarding friends who donate at the John Jay Associates level of $1,500 or more. We are grateful for the support of the following friends in helping the College surpass its goals.

Planned Giving

Philanthropic support through planned giving enables donors to leave a legacy to Columbia while helping them to achieve financial, philanthropic and estate-planning goals. We are pleased to thank the following donors for including Columbia College in their estate planning.

Gifts of Estate

Many alumni and friends have made bequest provisions, which are exempt from federal estate and state inheritance taxes and do not have a limit on the deduction amount. In Fiscal Year 2012–2013, Columbia College was the beneficiary of bequests from the estates of the following alumni, widows, widowers, relatives and friends.
