

Petition to the Committee on the Global Core for Course Approval

Submit this form to your advising dean

Description

The Global Core requirement asks students to engage directly with the variety of civilizations and diversity of traditions that, along with the West, have formed the world and continue to interact in it today. Courses in the Global Core typically explore the cultures of Africa, Asia, the Americas, and the Middle East in an historical context, and are organized around a set of primary materials produced in these traditions, drawing from texts or other forms of media, as well as from oral sources or performance. Global Core courses fall into two categories: those that focus on a specific culture or civilization, tracing its existence across a significant span of time; and those that address a common theme or set of analytic questions comparatively (and may include Europe and the West).
